Why do we feel GEL is COOL?

It gets cold only little by little because the molecule doesn't deprive of heat easily and it contacts only in the point.

It gets cold quickly because the molecule deprives of heat easily and contacts in the face.

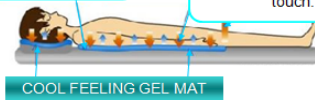

The feeling of cool continues until the gel become 40°C absorbing the heat of body.

You can get the cool feeling because the gel absorbs heat from the part that the body touches.

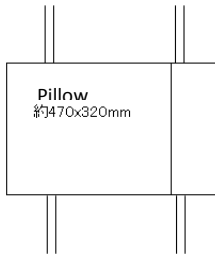

Sense of low repulsion mat of moderate hardness.

Heat runs away from the part that the body doesn't touch.
